Calvino frequency at (R)Audioscoop Maastricht Placard

So I finally got thru via the Locus Sonus patch. A bit of technological mysteries tested our patience the hours before. While rebooting I went out and chopped some wood. Later during stream there was also some nice intermezzo with an old friend of mine showing up here at home and trying to fix the chainsaw. Very nice and good indeed. Just a surprise that added to the qualities of the "Calvino frequency" set that I did at the \(R\)Audioscoop Maastricht Placard. For those of you that did not make it there in time, can for a starter download and listen to my set here. I believe some of the acts of this placard will be transmitted later onwards on the Raudio Podcast (and Vodcast?).

I am still working on the recordings on the VM12 and hopefully I soon can point you somewhere you can listen to VM12 in full length and depth. Sort of anyway.

(R)Audioscoop Placard

Miulew

October, 8 2006 at (R)Audioscoop

Klankwerkplaats Stichting Intro, Capucijnengang 12, Maastricht, Limburg, Netherlands,

Cost:

I am participating on the (R)Audioscoop that are taking place between 15.00 to 23.00 in Maastricht, Netherlands. That is - I will not be there in person - I will tune into the headphone festival at 16.30 in from remote from up here north in Sollefteå. I am going to do a 30 minutes set called Calvino Frequencys. More details to be found here:

http://www.leplacard.org/2006/\(R\)Audioscoop/details/Audioscoop/details/) There are about 14-16 different acts and if you not happen to be there there is usually a possibility to tune in from remote listening the <http://leplacard.org/>

Vicky's Mosquitos - one week after!

Yeah - - everything worked out very, very, very nice! I could not have imagined this happening. I am totally surprised with everyone who participated. Super! Awesome!

There will be sounds published somewhere later but I am right now processing the recordings (which btw sounds very fine, but needs some smaller adjustments on some passages).

Thank you all who participated - and thanks to Harold (HarS) for this very exciting project.

Until there are sounds to listen to you can go and have a look at these pictures from VM12.

Vicky's Mosquitos - update!

Five days to go there is now more people joining in. Added those friends to the poster. Things are also starting to take shape about this performance on Sunday now... on what to do and what to not do. Probably lots of unexpected things will happen but that should be just alright! . . . or? Of course! We're improvising!

Vicky's Mosquitos - VM12

Me and a couple of friends will be performing Vicky's Mosquitos on the 24th of September in Svanö, south of Kramfors. Follow above link to Harold Shellinx's site about his project. Don't know exactly who will be joining in, this will work out soon and it really does not matter that much as the whole thing will be very, very improvised. At last this will so happen and I am glad that it does. There will be some documentation of this event that I possibly will put online somewhere. More on that later. And maybe I did not tell... the performance will be taking place in the big old oil cisterne that has this marvellous reverb time of 25 second. Last year I did a performance there with the improvisation band MäAM and that was really a blast. Think this will be as good as that as I know have some more training of making sound in that huge building. This picture shows the ceiling from the inside (from last years poster with MäAM)

Embedded podcasts?

Just trying the new function over at Podomatic that embeds media files at blogs or html-pages. We'll see if it works. Below should appear some sort of playlist that is taken from my podcast site at <http://miulew.podomatic.com/>

Hmm... think it is working after all! :)
